

End “Who Dropped the Ball” Syndrome:

10 Essential Elements of Leadership to Boost Accountability and Profits

How does the “Who Dropped the Ball?” Syndrome interfere with the ability of key players to function as leaders? End “Who Dropped the Ball” Syndrome provides a roadmap of empowering and practical tools to steer the course as a leader in any role. Whether new to leadership, a wealth of experience, or in a position without a leadership title, this valuable program delivers actionable items for immediate implementation. Anyone determined to make a positive contribution discovers the influence, responsibility and impact of being an authentic leader. WARNING: Not suited for participants unwilling to realize the leader within and commit to improve their abilities and how they impact others!

Participants will learn:

- The significance of the Effectiveness Formula on performance
- Language that distinguishes leaders who excel from those who want to excel
- The one thing that allows you to handle everything that comes your way
- Two steps to ensure you are an effective leader

“Karen addressed our group and absolutely enthralled everyone. She brought energy, common sense, and humor to her presentation. She has a unique ability to connect with everyone in an audience and get them to engage, enjoy and be energized.” George Fleming, Momentum Coaching Resources, LLC

Benefits:

Responsibility and communication will improve. You and your team will boost performance and profits as exceptional leaders.

Karen M. Gridley, The Excuse Removal Expert™

Karen@KarenGridley.com

602.870.3652